A BROKER FROM THE WEST VISITS HIS WIFE AT NIGHT ARMED AND DISGUISED—SHE SHOOTS AT HIM FIVE TIMES.

Edward Macken, a mming broker, came to this city from the West two weeks azo, and registered his name at the Grand Union Hotel. He has separated from his wife, Jane, whom he m rried in October, 1879, but has supported her in confortable style in a flat at No. 158 East Forty-eighth-st., and when in the city has visited her. Friday evening Macken and his wife, a pretty brunette of twenty-four years, went to the theatre, where they met a man whose attentions to the wife are said to have made Macken jealous. Mrs. Macken was accompanied home by her husband, yest-orday morning, about three o'clock, Macken donned a false moustache and goatee, and equipped himself with a loaded, self-cocking revolver. It contained five chambers. He also took along two pieces of rope on which foot-rests were tied and a large awl and simlet. He had keys in his pocket, some of which fitted the rooms and bureau drawers of his wife's apartments. Opening the street door with one of the keys, he proceeded up stairs to the second flat occupied by his wife and found the door bolted. He had no use for the tope as he was able to get over the hall window by climbing on the balustrade. The first room was a dressing-room, through which he crawled on his knees, and thence proceeded through another room into his wife's apartments. The colored maid heard the noise, and called out to her mistress, who was so frightened at the sight apparently of a strange man in the room that she dared not answer her. The girl cried for help, and Macken then arose, and seizing a revolver which she keeps under her pillow at night fired five or six shots out the window.

The shots excited the neighborhood and attracted a crowd. They were heard by Sergeant Fuller and Policemen Lane and Whalen, of the Nineteenth Freeinet, and they ran quickly in the direction from which the shots seemed to proceed. Macken acknowledged to the Sergeant that he had no reason that she could not li

THE FREEPORT MYSTERY.

A POSSIBLE CLEW TO THE IDENTITY OF THE WOMAN.

The inquest upon the body of the woman found in the woods at Freeport, L. L., three weeks ago, by Joseph Ritchie, was resumed yesterday by Coroner Denton. There was a fair attendance of the villagers at Euterpean Hall to hear the testimony. It was stated by the officials that there was no truth in the report that a woman answering the description of the body found was missing from the village. A Miss Hendrickson left Hempstead last April, but she had been found alive and well in Philadelphia. The only witness was Miss Fannie B. Fowell, of Fre-port. In the early part of June, she said, she was at the house of her grandmother, who owned the woods where the body was found. Mrs. Smith, her grandmother, lived on the turnpike, near the field road that leads to the swamp where the body was found. In order to take this road, persons are obliged to pass between Mrs. Smith's house and the barn. Mess Fowell stated that on the night that she remained at her grandmother's she was ill with neuralgia and slert little. About 2 o'clock in the morning she heard a wagen driven down the swamp road. On a part of this road shells have been dumped, and the witness was positive that the wagon she heard a was driven on that road, as a made considerable noise when it passed over the shells.

Coroner Denton stated that Dr. William Rhame had made a second examination of the remains, but had found nothing that would tend to show the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; but he was certain that the cause or time of death; the hear of the promised su A POSSIBLE CLEW TO THE IDENTITY OF THE WOMAN.

would be well to adjourn the inquest. This was done.

Detective Payn states that some four months ago a young woman answering the description of the body found was missing from her home in one of the Eastern States. The woman was traced to New-York, and there found by one of the Central Office detec iv-s. She was found to be with a good family, and her friends received letters (as they supposed) from her regularly, saying that she was doing well. About ten days ago her brother received a letter from New-York, written by a woman, stating that the letters written to him and others purporting to come from his sister were untrue, and that his sister was dead. He came to this city at once and sought the detective who had found his sister and showed him the letter. The officer was not long in finding him the letter. the detective who had found his sister and showed him the letter. The officer was not long in finding th woman who had written the letter, who said that the missing girl was dead. She admitted writing the the letter, and declared that at no time had the missing girl been where the letters stated she was. All of this the officer on further investigation found to be true. A few days ago the detective having the case in charge was sent West on official business, and the inquest will not be resumed until he is heard from.

BOLD SNEAK THIEVES IN JERSEY CITY. TWO MEN STEAL A CASH BOX IN DAYLIGHT—BOTH CAPTURED THROUGH THEIR OWN STUPIDITY.

CAPTURED THROUGH THERE OWN STUPIDITY.

Two sneak thieves made a bold attempt between 9 and 10 o'clock yesterfay norming to rob the office of Stewards Carpet Cleaning Works, at Fifth and Erlests, Jersey City. The men bifered around the outside of the building for some time until they saw the office temporarily vacated, when one of them entered, and hastily picking up a tin cash box, passed it out through the window to his accomplice, who run off with it. Mr. Siewardson, the bookkeeper, saw the thieves as they were leaving the place, and giving an alarm, started in pursuit. He chased the man with the box up Erlest, and was slowly gaining on him, when the their drawing. thief, drawing satated for a moment revolver, turned on his pursuer and threatened to shoot him. Mr. Stevarison heathand for a moment, but immediately resumed the chase and was rapidly gaining on the fugitive when the latter dropped the box. Mr. Stevarison stopped to pick it up, thus allowing the third to gain some distance on him. The chase was continued through Eric to Grove-st. and thence to Fifthest, where the third disappeared in Owen Farley's building, and running up two flights of stairs, jumped out of the second-story window into Fifth-st.

No one in the street saw the man jump out, and he mingled with the crowd which at once collected around the door and began to inquire what the trouble was. If he had retained his presence of mind he would have e caped; but when a police-man approached the crowd to ascertain the cause of the excitement the thief became alarmed and fled, thus drawing attention to himself and leading to his capture by Policeman Moulds, who took him to the Scoond Precinct Station, where he gave his name as Martin Morris, of No. 156 Fulton-st., Brooklyn. While Mr. Stewartson was looking for Morris after the latter had gone into the building he left the cash box with James Roucke, the barkeeper in Farley's grogshop. After Morris was captured a man went into the shop and demanded the box, saying that Mr. Stewartson had sent him for it. The barkeeper refused to give it to him, and while they were arguing the question some men came in who recognized the fellow as the man woo had taken the box from the office and passed it out to Morris. On discovering that he was recognized he fled, but was pursued and captured in Erie-st. At the station he gave his name as James Simpson, and said that he lived in Virginia. The prisoners will have an examination to-morrow morning. The cash box contained $23.

FEW APPLES ON LONG ISLAND.

FEW APPLES ON LONG ISLAND.

This is a poor year for apples on Long Island. The fruit did no set as well as usual, and the season has been unfavorable, causing much of the fruit that did set to become deformed, gnarly or of inferior quality. The prolonged drouth kept the fruit from growing, and caused much to drop from the trees prematurely. The pear crop is unusually heavy, but in most localities the fruit is small.

COUNTERFEITERS IN COURT.

Charles Becker and Nathan Marks, the constable, who were arrested on Friday in East New-York, and in whose possession were tound a number of plates and tools for counterfeiting 1,000-franc notes on the Bank of France, were arraigned before Justice Walsh, in Brooklyn, yesterday. All the interested persons were in court, and the counterfeiters' tools and plates were in the Judge's private office. The two prisoners were arraigned separately, Becker being first called. He asked for a brief adjournment pending the arrival of his counsel, Mr. Knox, of the firm of Fullerton, Knox & Probst. His tase was finally adjourned until Monday after-abon.

It is asserted that Becker's wife trapped Market.

It is asserted that Becker's wife trapped Marks in the scheme. Marks had been seen frequently, it is said, in her company, although he is a married man. She is a goodlookinz woman even now, and was formerly very handsome. The prosecution is to be conducted by District-Attorney Cattin, Federick R. Condert and Mr. Lewis. Assistant United States District-Attorney Augell is of opinion that the United States Courts have no jurisdiction in the matter, and that the offence comes under the laws of this State.

STREET-CLEANING EXPENDITURE.

STREET-CLEANING EXPENDITURE.

Commissioner Coleman, of the Street-Cleaning Department, was asked yesterday by a reporter of The Tribune the reason for the large increase in the amount of money required for street-cleaning the coming year. He replied that it would be used in good part for obtaining new plant, live stock, etc. For the present year the appropriation was $735,000. The department was turned over to him by the Police Commissioners on June 15. Up to that time there had been used of the appropriation $401,000, leaving $334,000 available. That is, for five and one-half months the Police Commissioners had used up considerably more than one-half of the appropriation. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment added to the unexpended appropriation $350,000 for the present year. This gave the department $684,000 for six and one-half months' expenditure. Of this extra amount $136,000 will be expended for "plant." Much of that now in use is worn out, and must be replaced by new. Then additional scows are needed. Some of those now in use are hired by the department.

The amount asked for 1882 is $1,100,000. This The amount asked for 1882 is $1,100,000. This, in Mr. Coleman's opinion, will provide for additional cleaning of the streets, carting away of snow and ice, and procuring "plant" in addition to that which will be purchased before the end of January 1. Commissioner Coleman added that the department was, in the main, working satisfactorily. Notwithstanding the examples which had been made occasionally there were found cases where employes were receiving money for removing cellar dirt, etc. Whenever the offender was detected he was at once dismissed.

A NEW CONCERT-HALL PROJECTED.

A new concert-garden, at Breadway and Thirty-ninth-st., is projected by Kudolph Aronson, and it will be built as soon as a company is organized for the purpose. The proposed building will be 200 feet long by 100 feet wide, and will embrace a theatre, ball-room, concert-hall and summer-garden. The basement floor is to contain a cafe. At the rear of the cafe two refrigerators will be placed, from which cool air may be forced by fans through the whole interior. The main auditorium, arranged somewhat like the theatre attached to the Newport Casino, will be used for operettas and other light entertainments, besides the regular concerts during the summer. In the winter season the theatre will be used for varions entertainments, meetings, lectures, concerts, etc. The summer garden will occupy the whole area of the building, the clevation being sixty feet from the street. This it is proposed to make attractive by a fountain in the centre, borders of flowers, vines and exotics and colored lamps along the promenades. Two elevators will run from the hall to the roof. An open balcony thirty feet in width will encircle the second story of the building, affording a view of the theatre. In cold weather this balcony will be inclosed by colored glass, carpeted, and otherwise fitted up for a promenade during the winter entertainments. Mr. Aronson has been negotiating with Herr Strauss, of Vienna, to open the first season of summer concerts. A NEW CONCERT-HALL PROJECTED.

PAINED BY CRITICISM.

A meeting of the Lee Avenue Baptist Church in Brooklyn, of which Congressman J. Hyatt Smith is pastor, was held on Friday might. There were about eighty persons present, and the Rev. Mr. Smith presided. He said that it was his wish to do what was best for the church, and on account of his peculiar position he thought that that would be to offer his resignation. He believed that it was his duty to do this. He had been pained while in the Catskills in the summer, sick and suffering, to see an interview published in a Brooklyn paper, in which there were sharp and cruel remarks about him uttered by two trustees of the church. He did not wish to leave the church, where he had worked for fifteen years, with any harsh words, and he forgave freely the persons who had attacked him.

A motion was made to accept the resignation, but it was loss by a vote of three to one. Mr. Smith declared that his action was final, but a committee was appointed to ascertain what smount those present would subscribe toward defraying the expenses of continuing the church organization.
